

ABSTRACT

A hierarchical distributed reorder buffer including local reorder buffers in each execution cluster and a minimal global reorder buffer. Local reorder buffers maintain program order for each execution unit which may perform out of order processing on speculatively fetched instructions. The global reorder buffer maintains program order between execution clusters and facilitates distributed recovery from mispredicted instructions.